

North American Pollinator Protection Campaign Structure and Issues

More than 90 affiliated organizations, working to implement, promote and support a clear, continent wide coordinated Action Plan to encourage activities that assure documented increases in numbers and health of both resident and migratory pollinating animals.

The NAPPC Steering Committee:

Laurie Davies Adams, Executive Director, Coevolution Institute
Stephen Buchmann, Ph.D., Interim NAPPC Coordinator
Gordon Frankie, Ph.D., UC Berkeley
Howard Ginsberg, Ph.D., USGS-University of Rhode Island
Terry Griswold, USDA-ARS Bee Biology & Systematics
Paul J. Growald, Chair, Coevolution Institute
Doug Holy, USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service
David Inouye, Ph.D., University of Maryland
Peter Kevan, Ph.D., University of Guelph, Canada
Elizabeth Kilvert, Environment Canada
Gary Krupnick, Ph.D., Smithsonian Institution
Marcia Maslonek, Wildlife Habitat Council
Jonathan Mawdsley, Ph.D., Heinz Center
Rodrigo Medellin, Ph.D., UNAM, Mexico
Kim Winter, Ph.D., National Wildlife Federation
Mike Ruggiero, Ph.D., Smithsonian Institution
Larry Stritch, Ph.D., USDA Forest Service
Chip Taylor, Ph.D., University of Kansas/Monarch Watch

The NAPPC Liaisons

Dolores Savignano, Ph. D., Liaison to USFWS

Task Forces:

Monarch Issues
Honey Bee Health Improvement
Pesticide Labeling
Food Consumer Outreach
Public Land Managers
Research Data Collection
Youth Education
Agricultural Interface
Public and Private Gardens

Committees:

Working Lands and Wildland Conservation
Garden and Urban Habitat Conservation
Consumer Outreach
Research
Policies and Practices
Special Partnerships