Option 3(C)

1 Any option for managing public lands that includes widespread use of any herbicide is an extraordinarily poor idea, and should be avoided at almost any other -- including monetary -- cost.

I would support Option 3(C) using traditional land management procedures, 2 or even gentler procedures, rather than risk the widespread damage from herbicides, both immediately, and later as new health detriments (other than the carcinogenic, mutanogenic properties now known) are discovered.
