RE: Spraying Pesticides on forests and Grasslands

Dear Sirs:

1 I am writing to tell you that I am firmly opposed to spraying pesticides and herbicides on our national forests and grasslands because the poisoning of our earth is a poisoning of future generations as well as the present population. In addition, many beneficial plants exist in these ecosystems which will be harmed by the pesticides. And the wildlife which feed upon these plants will similarly be infected with toxins. There is no excuse for using these harmful chemicals on our public lands.

2 Spraying is a disaster for the valuable wild herbs which the people gather for traditional medicines

Sincerely,

Seely Solomon
