Sec. 603 (43 USC 1782). The Wilderness Act states:

“A wilderness, in contrast with those areas where man and his own works dominate the landscape, is hereby designated that area where man himself is a visitor who does not remain. An area of wilderness is further defined to mean a natural area, the influence of which is preserved, without permanent improvements or human habitation, which is protected and managed so as to be primarily by the forces of nature, with the imprint of man's work substantially unnoticeable; (2) has an area of at least five thousand acres of land or is of sufficient size as to make practicable its preservation and use for the purposes of scientific, educational, scenic, or historical value.”

Wilderness Review Checklist for

Sec. 603 (43 USC 1782). The Wilderness Act states:

“A wilderness, in contrast with those areas where man and his own works dominate the landscape, is hereby designated that area where man himself is a visitor who does not remain. The word ‘roadless’ refers to the absence of roads which have been improved and maintained by mechanical means.”
